

Introducing the Animal Hospice & Palliative Care Certificate Program

Helping practitioners provide better, more compassionate care at the end of life

aaha.com/hospicecare

Improve your end-of-life care for your patients, clients, and yourself.

Open to veterinarians, veterinary technicians, and all other members of the veterinary team, the Veterinary Hospice and Palliative Care Certificate Program is an online continuing education course covering topics in animal hospice, palliative care, and the euthanasia experience.

During this program, participants will:

- Understand the unique field of animal hospice
- Learn how palliative care differs from conventional medicine
- Learn best practices in hospice care
- Understand what to expect in the dying patient
- Learn how to improve the euthanasia experience for the pet and caregiver
- Learn skills for more compassionate care throughout the dying process

How does it work?

Available on VetFolio, the Veterinary Hospice and Palliative Care Certificate Program consists of six self-paced educational modules. Each module will include a brief exam, which will need to be successfully completed before moving on to the next module.

When all six modules have been completed, participants will receive a total of six hours of credits and a certificate of completion.

Pricing

$149 for AAHA members

$179 for nonmembers

Registration opens
April 3, 2017.

To learn more or register,
visit aaha.com/hospicecare.